BLOOD

Grave mistakes are made in the treatment of all diseases that arise from poison in the blood. Not one case of Scrofula, Syphilis, White Swelling, Ulcerous Sores and Skin Disease in a thousand is treated without the use of Mercury in some form. Mercury rots the bones, and the diseases it produces are worse than any other kind of blood or skin disease can be. Doctor PERBERTON'S STILLINGIA or QUEEN'S DELIGHT is the only medicine upon which a hope of recov-ery from Scrotala, Syphilis and Mercurial diseases in all stages, can be reasonably founded, and that will cure Cancer. $10,000 will be paid by the proprietors if Mercury, or any ingredient not purely vegetable and barmless can be found in it. A Notable Frenchwoman.

Madame Juliette Lamber was under the delusion that she was to have been the Aspasia of the Athenian Republic, and Gambetta the Pericles. She is a wonderfully well preserved woman of fifty. Her figure, though she is rather high shouldered and narrow in the chest, is elegant, and made to go well with handsome toilettes. She has small, pearly teeth, and a quantity of long dark hair, which she wears falling down her back in seaside fashion. Her laugh is gay, her manners are Bohemian, her purse is well filled, Senator Adam having left her all his fortune, which was a handsome oce, and her cellar is well stocked with fine old wines that he bought. Madame Juliette Lamber has a pretty literary talent; but she wrote better eighteen years ago, when she inhabited the poverty stricken side of Bohemia, and furnished light articles to the Siecle. She was then living in en garcon, in the Rue Bergere. George Sand's novels, and still more the memoirs of that extraordipary woman, had readered her impatient of family ties. She ran away from her native village, leaving a husband for whom she never cared, a daughter of tender age, and a father who brought her up as a boy. If she did not know she was deliciously pretty in the country she soon found it out in Paris, where she in-troduced hers if Madame Sand, and was presented by 1.1 Take beaux caprits of her

The pupil ran ahead of the preceptor. George Sand was all her life a laberious woman, at done of the most devoted mothers that ever lived. She never, in the maddest period of her career, separated from her two children, unless in her tour in Northern Italy with Alfred de Musset. Nor was she caquettish, nor brilliant to conversation. Juliette Lumber was both. and iconstant as the moon. For the sake of her gay companionship M. Elmond Adam put up with her whim-whams and Attenian fancies. It she admired a brilliant writer, orator or artist the indulgent husband at once struck up a friendship with him. He only saw markind through his wife's eyes. For her sake he adopted Henri Rochefort's children, and sent money to Rochefort to enable him to escape from New Caledonia. Since the death of M. Adam, Gambetta bas been much less intimate with Madame Juliette Lamber, and he is very loth to become ber Pericles in the eyes of the law. She aimed, in the early months of her widowhood, at sccuring the Deputy of Belleville for her third nusband, and gave, new as her mourning garments were, gay dinners and receptions to his honor. As the evening wore on at these festivities card tables were drawn out, and high play resorted to, as a pastime. Every politi-cal man who fixed his hopes in Gambetta courted the sparkling widow whose charmes defied the ravaging figures of time. The respectable M. Leon Say himself thought it worth his while to appear in the character of a devoted and humble slave. Ladies were not invited to those merry meetings. Madame Juliette Lamber wished to toss with case her cap over the wiodmill. She was invested to the vestry and ecquetry of her sex, and sho was bou gardon in her speech. As to toilette, in the deep mourning period of her widowhood, she were a jet coronet, and her hair luxuriantly streaming down her back, a black corded silk dress with a high body and no sleeves, and a dainty little jet spangled ruff round her neck. The sable garment set off the whiteness of the arms, which are finely shaped and might well belong to a Venus of thirty five, though they have been in the world over half'a century. Admiral Pothuan M. de Marcere, M. Tesserer e de Bart, Generals Farre and Faidherbe, Sard, u. M. Edmund About, M. Andrieux, the actual Perfect of Police, and M. Emile de Girardin used to be habitutes of Juliette Lamber's saloon. M. Jules Simon thought it infradig. to go there, and comity accordingly was shown between him and Gambetta. It was in her drawing room that the p'an was started to badger the Marshal into wi hdrawing from the Presidency and Dafaire elected in his place, unconsciously to serve is a warming pan for Gambetta. To understand the political history of the last five years, it is e-sential to command a vista in this modern Nicon's drawing room .- Paris Cor. N. Y. Tribune

A TURKISH BELLE,-Klamin Boy, the master of court ceremonies for unwards of thirty years, died suddenly last week of heart disease while returning from the theatre. This functionary was sixty years of age and thoroughly Europeanized in his habits and tastes. Having both received an European education, and being beautiful women, his wife and her sister were the leading Turkish belles of their time. His eldest son, Feridoun Boy, is Ottomen Consul at Pesth, and his next sou, Aziz Bey, the Sultan's secretary. The present reigning brile among the Turk ish ladies is the Princess Nazi, the widow of Khamil Pasha, nephew of the Khedive of Egypt, quondam Turkish Ambassador at Paris, who died recently. She speaks English and French with great ease, and is so hberal mioded as to remove her well in the presence of European gentlemen and to converse with them. She carried her broad views so far as to go cut riding in a tight ficting habit and high hat, without her veil, but the stern Abdul Az z put an end to that. - Constantinople Cor. Phila. Telegraph.

THE Pope is making great reduction in his personal household, observing that it is usoless to keep up an enormous kitchen where nothing is cooked. His dinner consists of a soup and one plate. Of personal service he requires very little, so that his retainers will be reduced to one third of their number.
